Geology Field Trip #17 – Don leads us again!

Thursday, November 3, 2011

8:00 a.m. – 5 p.m.

Geology of the I-35 Corridor

An Amazing Natural Treasure that just keeps on “giving”. But what will it be like in 2030?

Visit farms, ranches, and quarries trying to make a profit from the Georgetown-Edwards limestone outcrops. Review and speculate on the water, oil, and gas potential of the buried limestones from Sun City to Waco. Is it time to consider investing in water and/or oil and gas?

Visit the Mammoth Center in Waco

The Waco Mammoth Site sits in a 100-plus acre stretch of wooded parkland along the Bosque River. Covered in sprawling oak, mesquite and cedar trees, the sites offer an escape from the modern world and provides a glimpse into the lives of Columbian mammoths.

Though the first bones at site were discovered in 1978, the site remained closed to the public until the end of 2009. Baylor University staff, students and volunteers spent countless hours excavating the site during the past 30 years. In 2006, plans were initiated to make the site a public park. With the support of the Waco Mammoth Foundation, this goal became a reality.

The Waco Mammoth Site now includes a breathtaking dig shelter that creates an atmosphere of an art gallery. Natural light floods into the shelter from all directions and a suspended walkway provides a stunning overhead view of the mammoths. The site also features a scenic trail way complete with benches and rest areas where visitors can reflect on what life was like during the age of the mammoths.
